Fly Fishing with Craig!

Thursday, September 16, 12:00pm-2:30pm

Location: The Landing Tech Room

The history of fly fishing is a long and colorful road that's believed to have begun in around the 2nd century in Rome! While they weren't equipped with gear-powered reels or weight-forward fly lines, the practice of mimicking a fly drifting on the top of the water began to gain popularity. Even though the casting technique wasn't improved until hundreds of years later in England, the beginning of fly fishing (and fly tying) was revolutionary at the time.

In this class we'll start in the classroom where you'll learn about the history of fly fishing generally as well as here in Central Wisconsin, including a history of Carrie Frost. She was a fly fishing entrepreneur who paved the way for other female business owners in the late 1800s and early 1900s. Despite the fact that women could not vote and in many cases could not own property, Carrie Frost created a successful manufacturing company, and she gave over 150 Stevens Point women a chance to earn their own wages in a time when they were not often able to do so.

After we cover the history and answer some of your questions, we'll move outside (weather permitting) to practice fly casting!
